J. M. PILE IS DEAD

Founder of Wayne Normal School Passes Away.

DIES THURSDAY NOON

President of Thriving College at Time of Death.

WORRIED HIMSELF TO DEATH

Issuing $40,000 Worth of Bonds Two Years Ago, Prof. Pile Allowed the Debt to Weigh Heavily Upon Him Till He Expired.

Wayne, Neb., March 11.—Special to The News: Professor J. M. Pile, president and founder of the Wayne normal college of this city, and one of the best known educators in the state, died at 11 o'clock this morning after a year's illness from yellow jaundice. The news of his death was a great shock to the entire community and will be to all of northern Nebraska, where he was held in high esteem.

Professor Pile came to Wayne in 1891 and started the normal school which grew into magnificent proportions. The citizens of Wayne formed a company to back his school. They bought eighty acres of land, platted it into town lots, sold the lots at $25 each and with the proceeds paid for the land and then turned the surplus over to Pile as a fund with which to start the college. He agreed to maintain an educational institution and at the end of the ten years the property became his.

He has added more than $170,000 in improvements since that time, so that the institution is worth over $200,000 today.

Worried Himself to Death.
Two years ago Mr. Pile floated $40,000 of ten-year 5 per cent bonds with which to add a new building. He built a building costing $50,000. Wayne citizens took these bonds. It is confidently believed that the weight of this new debt, which worried Mr. Pile very greatly, ultimately caused his death.

Among the pioneer citizens who formed the company years ago making it possible for Mr. Pile to start his school were A. L. Tucker, D. C. Main, John T. Bressler, Dan Harrington, R. Phileo, D. R. Theobald, A. J. Ferguson, A. A. Welch.

Recently Mr. Pile started an agricultural school at the college. He dies leaving a splendid college, with fine buildings, four large dormitories, a residence that cost about $7,000, thoroughbred stock and extensive grounds.

The Wayne normal college will stand for all time as a fitting monument to the constructive persevering and untiring efforts of a man of large mind and ability.

Mr. Pile was feeling well day before yesterday, though confined to his bed. His friends hoped against hope for his recovery, though the physicians never really had any hope of his recovery, it is believed.

School Offered to State.
The Nebraska state legislature is at this very moment considering the purchase of the Wayne normal college to make it into a state normal college. Its fitness is recognized by those who know the school.

The offer to the state was prompted by the heavy weight of the last bonded indebtedness, which proved fatal today.

Mrs. Pile and the family are here. Mr. Pile was over fifty years of age.

Twenty years ago J. M. Pile came to Norfolk to build a normal college. His business men at that time declined to back his enterprise and he went to Wayne, where he has erected a lasting and permanent normal college of genuine worth.

CLAIMS COOPER FIRED FIRST SHOT

State Contends Bullet Was Deflected and Wounded His Son.

Nashville, Tenn., March 11.—Two features were made to stand out in the Cooper-Sharp trial for the murder of former Senator Carmack. The state announced through Attorney General Garner that it would contend that Colonel D. B. Cooper fired the shot which wounded his son and that Senator Carmack, if he fired at all, fired wildly. General Garner first declared that it would be a physical impossibility for Carmack to have shot Robin, as the Coopers swear he did. Next he declared that the reasonable solution of the problem was that Colonel Cooper opened fire on Carmack, as Mrs. Eastman believes he did, and that a bullet from his pistol struck the telephone post, was deflected and entered Robin's shoulder. He contended that this theory is corroborated by the course of the bullet, which penetrated the flesh only an inch and a half and failed to hit the bone. A .38-caliber bullet, fired point blank at a range of three or four feet, Garner contends, would have gone deeper in the flesh than an inch and a half.

The court proceedings were interrupted by the sudden fainting of Mrs. Carmack. The audience's attention was instantly diverted to the widow of the murdered man. It became evident from the argument of General Washington for the defense, who followed General Garner before the jury, that the defense proposes to rely strongly upon a plea of justification, as well as upon the plea of self-defense. General Washington devoted the entire two hours of his argument to a denunciation of Carmack. He interpreted Carmack's words and editorials as he said they were meant and as Colonel Cooper interpreted them, and declared that the colonel had no other recourse in the world.

WOOL WAREHOUSE AT CHICAGO

Cornerstone Is Laid and Storage Company Elects Officers.

Chicago, March 11.—The selection of officers of the Warehouse and Storage company and the laying of a cornerstone of an immense warehouse, which, when completed, will accommodate 25,000,000 pounds of wool, were two steps taken in a movement to make this city the wool center of the United States. J. E. Cosgriff of Rawlins, Wyo., was chosen president of the new organization.

The building is expected to be ready for occupancy May 15, in ample time to take care of this year's clip of wool. It is proposed to store at least 25,000,000 pounds of wool this season and arrangements are under way to increase the amount to 50,000,000 pounds the second year. The following year it is expected that nearly 100,000,000 pounds will find its way to this city.

BLOW ENDS IN DEATH

Tom Cloude of O'Neill Killed at Long Pine.

WAS STRUCK WITH A SHOVEL

Ed Reese, Nineteen Years Old, Struck Him.

Cloude HAD BEEN DRINKING

Ed Reese, a Young Man at Long Pine, is Said to Have Been Molested by Cloude Until Forced to Strike With Shovel—Blow Proves Fatal.

Long Pine, Neb., March 11.—Special to The News: Tom Cloude of O'Neill, a young man twenty-three or twenty-four years old, died here yesterday afternoon as the result of a blow from a shovel in the hands of Ed Reese, a young man about nineteen years old, struck Monday.

Reese is the son of Pierce Anders, who conducts a pool hall here.

Cloude Was Drunk.
It seems that Cloude was drunk and insisted on a fight with Reese, who went for the marshal. Cloude had gone when Reese and the marshal returned, but later Cloude came back and is said to have gone at Reese with a pair of knuckles.

Reese was shoveling snow in the depot yards, and hit the man, knocking him down. Cloude struck with the back of his head against a rail. He seemed to be improving Tuesday but died very suddenly yesterday afternoon.

Used Brass Knuckles.
It is said that Cloude approached Reese and demanded that Reese give him his shovel. Reese refused to do this and Cloude drew from his pocket the pair of brass knuckles, with the remark that he would have the shovel anyway. In an effort to protect himself, Reese hit the fellow on the head with his shovel. The man was immediately taken up town and given the best of medical aid, and it was at first believed he would live. He died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Reese did not make any attempt to escape, as his case seems to be merely one of self-defense, as the same story is told by a large number of bystanders. Cloude came to Long Pine last Sunday in company with a number of young men from O'Neill, and all of them had been drinking more or less on Monday. One of the dead man's partners claim that Cloude was generally ugly when under the influence of liquor.

The body of the unfortunate man was shipped to O'Neill today for interment.

Reese Stands Well.
Reese is a highly esteemed young man in Long Pine and has always borne the reputation of being a very peaceable lad and this is his first experience of being mixed up in a case of this kind.

The young man has not yet been placed under arrest and perhaps will not be, as he has no intention whatever of leaving town.

SUES RAILROAD FOR $45,000

Chadron Engineer Asks Big Sum for Impaired Health.

O'Neill, Neb., March 11.—Special to The News: Holt county continues to be the focus point for large and sensational damage suits against railroads.

The latest is a $45,000 suit against the Northwestern. The case properly belongs in Dawes county, as the plaintiff, James W. Pace, sustained the injuries for which he asks the large amount of damages, near Chadron and at which place he resided.

He claims to have been injured on June 26, 1908, when about two miles out of Chadron, running as an engineer on the head engine of a "double-header" out of Chadron for Long Pine. He was a regular engineer on the road running between the two points.

The plaintiff's petition states they ran onto a washed out track and his engine overturned. He recites a list of injuries, impaired health and a condition rendering him unable to work since the accident as cause to recover $45,000 from the railroad.

M. F. Harrington of O'Neill and C. Patterson of Rushville are the attorneys for Pace.

CAN NOT BLACKLIST BUCKS STOVE COMPANY

Labor Federation Enjoined from "We Don't Patronize" Listing.

Washington, March 11.—The court of appeals in the District of Columbia today modified and affirmed the opinion of Justice Gould of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, enjoining the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers and others, from publishing in the "We Don't Patronize" list, the name of the Bucks Stove and Range company of St. Louis.

The opinion eliminates the restriction of the defendants from "mentioning, writing or referring to" the business of the stove company or its customers.

Chief Justice Shepard, in a partial dissenting opinion, took a strong stand for the freedom of the press and said the publication was protected by the first amendment to the constitution. The only redress, he said, was through civil action or criminal prosecution. There is no power to restrain publication, he said.

INCOME TAX BILL PASSES DEPUTIES

Mingled Feelings of Rage and Triumph in France.

Paris, March 11.—The country has received the passage of the income tax bill by the chamber of deputies with mingled feelings of rage and triumph. The commercial, moneyed and property classes generally, whose interests are voiced by such journals as the Figaro, the Temps and the Journal des Debats, deplore it as a piece of criminal folly and voted by a "cowardly majority" solicited only of re-election next spring.

On the other hand, the Socialists and radicals joyfully hail the passage of the bill as marking the beginning of the millennium—the entering wedge of the strong boxes of the rich which will furnish money to realize old age pensions, nationalization of railroads and other public utilities and for the whole program of state socialism.

The income tax bill as passed is in reality an electoral platform upon which the radicals and Socialists will go to the country. The measure carries an amendment postponing its application until a parallel bill assuring revenue to the various communes and departments is adopted.

URRY JONES HANGS SELF IN CELL

Was on Trial for Murder of Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle at Muscatine.

Muscatine, Ia., March 11.—On trial for murder and preparing to go on the witness stand in his own behalf, Urry Jones took his own life in his cell by hanging himself to the topmost bar of the door between midnight and morning. He was found by a prison guard at 7 o'clock. Jones was being tried for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Winkle Dec. 3, 1907. The murder was an unusually brutal one, the two unfortunate having had their brains beaten out with a club. They had been married only a year. Jones was followed for a year and arrested at Milan, Kan.

Jones' real name is believed to be Fred Beatty, under indictment in Washington county, Pennsylvania, for killing his wife. He took his life by cutting a bed quilt into strips and making a rope out of them by twisting them tightly together.

The whole military power of the state will be at the disposal of the Ottumwa officers if they need it to insure fair play."

CASE IS CALLED BY NETTLETON

Charges Combine of State Officers and Bonding Companies.

NEAR-SENSATION IN THE HOUSE

General Maintenance Bill is Recommended for Passage—Senate Kills Initiative and Referendum Measure, Senate Sifting Committee Named.

Lincoln, March 11.—Discussion which many times bordered on the sensational characterized the session of the house when the current expense appropriation bill was being considered. With the exception of an item of $1,500 for an ice and cold storage plant at the Norfolk insane asylum, all of the larger appropriations were left intact. The item for a normal training school was added, the amount being $75,000.

The matter which attracted most attention was an amendment for an appropriation of $5,000 to pay for the state treasurer's bond. Case opposed an amendment to increase it from $4,000 to $5,000, declaring the state officers to be bonded with the bond companies to increase the bonds of these officials.

Former Speaker Nettleton was on his feet in a moment, asking Representative Case if he had proof of the correctness of this statement, to which the latter admitted he had not, but believed to be true.

"No statement such as that made by the gentleman should be made in the house without proof," declared Nettleton. "The gentleman has charged the state officers with an offense which would subject them to impeachment. He should be able to prove his statement or retract it."

When it was explained that the state treasurer's bond had not been increased the larger amount was allowed.

Several other items of importance were cause for considerable debate. Representative Bates asked for an appropriation of $12,000 for a sewer at the soldiers' home at Grand Island, instead of $1,000 which had been placed in the bill. Clark charged that Grand Island was trying to secure a big sewer at the expense of the state, and the amendment was lost.

Hearing on Stock Yards Bill

Today the committee on miscellaneous subjects is giving a hearing to those interested in the stock yards bill. There will doubtless be some strong objections urged against the measure, but it will have plenty of supporters. The measure is evidently coming before the house in a short time, since the committee is preparing to act.

The senate sifting committee has been named. It is composed of Diers of York, Ollis of Valley, Buck of Otoe, Miller of Lancaster, Volpp of Dodge, Tibbets of Adams and Tanner of Douglas. The Democratic members should caucus decided on who should consider the committee. The caucus considered the feasibility of placing two Republican members on the committee, but could not agree on whom they should be. The Republicans claimed the right to name these two, and the result was no Republicans were selected. Two years ago there were no Democrats on the committee. The members will divide the work, which will commence at once. Within two or three days it will probably become known what bills are slated for final action.

Much of the time of the senate was given over to a consideration of the taxation measure. Senator Hanson denounced Douglas county, following an attack by Ollis in which he charged Omaha received the greatest share of railroad taxes.

A bill to enact the initiative and referendum was defeated in the senate by a vote of 16 to 17.

Prohibition Issue at Hastings

Hastings, Neb., March 11.—The spring municipal campaign is open, with party lines entirely obliterated. The question of absolute prohibition is the sole issue. Of the four retiring councilmen, two favor high license and two stand for prohibition.
